ability to discriminate between those to say. When they got through we just caught in Chester river and those taken from other waters and the marshes along the Chesapeake. The implements for catching terrapin are very simple. They are often taken by dragging in waters where they are nibernating, or the terrapin hunter, armed with a stick, on one end of which is a hook, will walked around the marshes inserting it into holes made by muskrats and other animals, and if the stick comes in contact with a terrapin, the hook end is inserted and his terrapinship is brought forth. Several are often taken from one bed. They are in a state of lethargy when caught in the winter seson. Ia very cold weather they will often freeze, and, though heroically tested, they show no sign of life.
